YOUNG GUNS

TEXT BY JUDY WADE ■ PORTRAIT PHOTOGRAPHY BY CHRISTIAAN BLOK

Relative newcomers to the design world, these five rising stars are already blazing trails and leaving their marks of distinction.

Name: Berkley Vallone
Profession: Interior designer
Company: Vallone Design Inc., Scottsdale
Age: 27
Education: School of Visual Arts, New York, bachelor of fine arts

This Phoenix native literally learned her craft at her mother's knee. Berkley Vallone started out as a high school art teacher and spent summers working with her mother, longtime Phoenix-area interior designer Donna Vallone. Realizing that the profession came naturally, the younger Vallone joined forces with her mom and now is a member of Vallone Design.

Vallone combines her inherited sense of style, which she calls "a young perspective on traditional design," with her own edginess to create spaces offering wide appeal. When she collaborates with her mother, the designer says the two are on the same page 90 percent of the time.

Her big break came when she remodeled a residence in Arcadia, the Phoenix neighborhood where she grew up. The two-year project took the home down to its original footings.

While Vallone says accolades are not her focus, her designs already have appeared in Phoenix Home & Garden magazine (August 2006). Vallone Design currently is working on the public spaces at the Scottsdale Waterfront and a remodeling project at the Royal Palm Resort and Spa.
